Judith Glick Buckman

After her pregnancy discrimination case with the Cherry Hill schools in 1971, Judy heard a NOW speaker and realized her situation hadn't been the problem—it was society that was broken and needed to be fixed (Gloria Steinem called this "the click"). Judy joined Philadelphia NOW then, in 1974, South Jersey NOW ("the Alice Paul chapter" part was added a few years later). One of her first activities was attending consciousness raising (CR) sessions which permanently changed her life.

Judy has been a member of South Jersey NOW for 47 years. In 1978-1980, 1982, and since 2013, Judy has served as chapter president. After a few successful events, Judy was hooked on fundraising and continued to do that for the next 40 years. She also writes the newsletter calendar; served on Budget, Nominating and By-Laws committees; mentors new leaders; organized bus trips to DC and has presented workshops at National NOW Conferences on Leadership Development, Increasing Chapter Activism and Alice Paul.

In 1984, Judy and other chapter members formed the Alice Paul committee (later the Alice Paul Centennial Foundation, now the Alice Paul Center for Gender Justice) to celebrate Alice's 100th Birthday, an event that Judy chaired. After serving on the APCF Board for 10 years, Judy started their Girls Leadership Program.

For many years, Judy has hosted monthly Planning Meetings and newsletter mailings. She has collaborated with community groups including the Southern Burlington County NAACP and the League of Women Voters. Most recently, she was the recipient of Planned Parenthood's Public Affairs Award, the Outstanding Woman of Burlington County Award, and the Alice Paul Equality Award.

On January 11, 2014, at a dinner to celebrate Alice Paul's birthday, Judy bemoaned the fact that the chapter had to spend so much time and effort doing fundraising. Barbara Irvine thought for a minute and came up with the solution saying, "We need a tax-deductible 501(c)(3) to raise money so the chapter can do its real work of grassroots women's rights activism!" The Judith Glick Buckman Fund for the Future was incorporated by the IRS in November 2014 and the rest is herstory.

Welcome from the Board of Trustees

Welcome to the ninth annual Judith Glick Buckman Fund for the Future Celebrating Women's Voices Event. On behalf of the Board of Trustees, we want to take this opportunity to thank you for joining us today. We appreciate all who have supported this 501(c)(3) organization to help fund the advancement of women's rights.

We hope that all of you will continue to support our mission to educate the community about the importance of women's contributions and the importance of the advancement of women's rights.

Speaker

Jill Wine-Banks, a distinguished attorney, author, speaker and MSNBC Legal Analyst, is a prominent figure in political and legal discourse.

In addition to her on-air MSNBC commentary, Jill co-hosts #SistersinLaw, a top-rated, Webby Award People's Choice Award winner for best news and politics podcast of 2024. It is produced by Politicon and features Jill alongside political and legal luminaries who are fellow MSNBC Analysts: Joyce Vance, Barb McQuade, and Kimberly Atkins Stohr. They offer in-depth analysis of legal issues each week.

Until recently, she also co-hosted iGenPolitics with Victor Shi, a GenZ'r, to engage audiences of all ages in pressing national issues. They interviewed leading politicians, journalists, and political activists on a wide range of political issues each week, with over 200 episodes to date. (Currently, iGenPolitics is on hiatus as Victor just graduated from UCLA.) She is starting a new solo interview series on YouTube.

Jill is also a celebrated author, with her memoir, The Watergate Girl: My Fight for Truth and Justice Against A Criminal President, optioned for a film adaptation by Katie Holmes/Noelle Productions. She continues to contribute op-eds to various esteemed publications, including NBC, the Chicago Tribune, Washington Post, Politico, MSNBC, and the Huffington Post.

Jill's influence extends to national and international television, radio, and podcasts, where she provides expert analysis and commentary. As a sought-after speaker, she shares her wealth of knowledge with audiences around the world. Additionally, Jill has made notable appearances in documentaries and films, including Charles Ferguson's Watergate, or How We Learned to Stop an Out of Control President; Robert Redford's All the President's Men Revisited; and Michael Moore's Fahrenheit 11/9.

"I never feared the end of impartial justice, the free press, or free elections during Watergate. I do now."

JGB Fund for the Future
donated to the Alice Paul Center for Gender Justice's
Girls Leadership Council

The Alice Paul Center for Gender Justice (APC) educates and empowers girls and young women to view themselves as leaders, encourage civic engagement, preserve Paulsdale, and advocate for the passage of the ERA which, when enshrined in the U.S. Constitution, will give legal and lasting equal protections to people of all genders.

The Girls Leadership Council, sponsored by APC, is a space where female-identifying teens gather to discuss issues related to gender equity, build community, and develop their skills as advocates and leaders. They meet monthly from September to June, and participate in leadership projects, learning how to talk about themselves and the things they care about, and who to talk to about those things.

The Fund for the Future donated to send two GLC members to see the musical "Suffs" on Broadway. "Suffs" is Shaina Taub's award-winning musical telling the story of the suffragists as they fight for the women's right to vote.

You can view our interview with Kennedy Dancy, currently a freshman at Syracuse University, and Salmah Khalil, a freshman at Rutgers University, here.

GIRLS LEADERSHIP COUNCIL

The teen girls of today are the world leaders of tomorrow.
Girls Leadership council is here to help prepare their way!

GLC is a space where female-identifying teens gather to discuss issues related to gender equity, build community, and develop their skills as advocates and leaders.

WHEN & WHERE

Meets once a month » September-June, 6:30-8:00 PM
Paulsdale, 128 Hooton Rd, Mt Laurel, NJ

For anyone interested in:

- Learning about issues affecting women and girls
- Meeting like-minded teens
- Connecting with mentors
- Advocating for gender equity
- Making a difference in your community

“All of the networking and mentoring events at the meetings developed my interviewing skills. GLC taught me how to be both professional and personable at the same time, and I think that is what shined in my interview to make me a standout.”

Newsome Psychological Services, Inc. is a behavioral health care practice with offices in Burlington and Cumberland Counties that provide forensic and clinical service to individuals, families and organizations and which aims to enhance skills, encourage empowerment, and facilitate the realization of full potential. I am the NPS Practice Manager, and I very much enjoy interacting with staff and clients and utilizing my organizational and problem-solving skills to ensure the effectiveness of the practice. I also enjoy working to develop new, holistic services to offer our clients and the community that focus on thriving, resilience and well-being.

As a Kripalu Certified Mindful Outdoor Leader, Meditation Teacher and RYT200 yoga teacher, I have worked with our experienced mental health clinicians to develop a unique blend of yoga, workshops, affinity groups and nature experiences. The programs are designed to integrate components of physical, mental and emotional well-being and to emphasize that true well-being is possible only in the context of community and a healthy natural world.

As human beings we evolved spending most of our time outdoors, living in close connection with each other and the natural world. In our modern times, we have separated ourselves from the natural world and from each other. Today we spend 90% of our time indoors and an average of 11 hours a day on some type of screen. In addition, the CDC recently raised the alarm about the devastating impacts of loneliness and isolation on our society. Right now, many of us are digging deep and still struggling to meet the challenges of our uncertain times. I passionately believe practices incorporating mindfulness, movement, positive psychology, community and nature are the life changing antidotes we need.

Fact Sheet

The Judith Glick Buckman Fund for the Future, Inc. (the "Fund") was incorporated in November 2014. The Fund is named after a woman who devoted more than 40 years of her life working for women's rights in southern New Jersey and beyond.

Its purpose is to educate the community about the importance of women's contributions to all segments of American society. It stresses the importance of the advancement of women's rights, full citizenship, and participation in all aspects of a democratic society. This includes public service, employment, education, athletics, family life, and volunteerism.

What Does the Fund Do?

The Fund raises and distributes money to assist with charitable activities and educational programs within our service area from Trenton to Cape May.

Past activities supported by the Fund Include:

- Provided cash awards to winners of annual essay contests for middle and high school students on topics related to the advancement of women's rights.
- Furnished honoraria to speakers on a broad range of topics, including women's entrepreneurship, girls and technology, women heroes of the civil rights movement, and an introduction to WOMEN'S WAY (a funder of organizations that provide social services to women and families throughout Philadelphia and southern New Jersey).
- Offered public programs on "Maintaining Healthcare Insurance Following Divorce", "Human Trafficking and How to Combat It" and many other topics.
- Supported films and videos about women in history including "The Triangle Shirtwaist Factory Fire" (which led to the development of unions and safe labor practices); "Makers: Women Who Made America Parts 1-3"; and "Votes for Women" (C-SPAN award-winning student documentary).
- Provided publicity for local Displaced Homemaker service organizations.
- Collaborated with the Southern Burlington County NAACP to hold three public "Conversations on Race in America".
- Sponsored seminars with the Burlington County League of Women Voters including "Why Aren't More Women in Politics?" as well as "Running and Winning" for high school girls to get them involved in the political process as voters, candidates or campaign officials (<https://lwvnj.wordpress.com/tag/burlington-county>).
- Awarded scholarships and financial support for Alice Paul Center for Gender Justice's leadership programs ("Lead-A-Way", APPLI, Girls Leadership Council - <http://www.alicepaul.org>), as well as AAUW/Stockton University's "Tech Trek STEM camp" (<http://techtrek-nj.aauw.net>) to expose eighth-grade girls to science, technology, engineering and math careers.
- Supported Rutgers' Center for American Women and Politics (CAWP) programs (cawp.rutgers.edu), including their Ready to Run campaign trainings for college students.
